REDEFINING CONSTRUCTION

OUR HISTORY

Jose is a very passionate and experienced person with a Bachelor in Mechanical Engineering who worked in the industrial construction in Mexico as a general contractor. He is one of the founding partners along with Darren McKenna. In Canada, Jose gained experience in the concrete industry and then as a Project Manager for light industrial projects such as warehouses and shops. Jose is our Director of Operations who oversees projects from their beginning to their end, being involved in every step of the way from the estimating, to the planning and the running of job sites.

Jose Castanon
Co-Owner & Director of Operations

Darren is also a founding partner of Canadian Civil and Concrete Contractors Group Ltd. He graduated from Business Finance at NAIT and began his career in the banking industry. He also has over 15 year experience in the finance industry. He is now our Director of Finances and overlooks our projects to determine the best path to make cost-effective and smart choices that will satisfy our customers' needs by offering competitive prices and outstanding quality. His passion for construction continues to grow with each project that 4C Group starts and completes.

Darren McKenna
Co-Owner & Director of Finances

In September 2014 Darren and Jose met while working on the construction of a build-to-spec industrial warehouse in Leduc; Jose acting as a project manager and Darren as a finance expert wanting to know more about construction while actively participating in the project. During this time, they realized they had more in common than what they imagined; they had a different perspective towards the meaning of construction in this era and they were convinced that there could be better construction systems. They believed that the focus should be on "lean" construction; that documentation along the process was indispensable in order to monitor progress and its cost, and that technology and innovation should be present in every aspect of a construction company.

Together they decided to start Canadian Civil and Concrete Contractors Group Ltd and ever since they have been tackling project challenges in the most efficient, feasible and open minded way they have been able to. So dream, build and improve the world one project at a time!
